WORKSHOP DESCRIPTIONS

A New Rhythm, Cajon Drumming
Worship Musician's Track | Kyle Schweikhard
What is that? It's a Cajon Drum, "The Box." No more guessing on how to play this instrument. Receive vital information on how to play it correctly, the advantages of a Cajon, traditional and nontraditional techniques, and practicing tips.

A Sacred Duet (for Lead Pastors & Lead Worshipers)
Worship Leadership & Pastoral Leadership Tracks | Billy Phipps & Stefanie Kelly
Relational health, often neglected, eludes many church teams today. While relevance, innovation, and excellence are effective tools to reach the lost, we will discover how seeking emotional healing yields great rewards for our shepherds, worshipers, and overflowing communities.

Advanced Social Media: Developing Your Strategy for Desired Results
Stewarding Technology Track | DJ Chuang
You're already using Twitter and Facebook and YouTube, but how do you know if what you're using is working? Learn how to increase your social media proficiency by defining your content flow and managing your daily workflow, so you'll get more of the results you want for your ministry.

Amazing "Aging" Grace
Worship Leadership Track | Stefanie Kelly
Stefanie will discuss the challenges and joys of working with a musical team rich in diversity of age and story. From volunteers to "ringers," tweens to the "saints," beginning musicians to advanced professionals, Stefanie will offer practical tools for all to partake in the communion of worship through music without compromising authenticity or excellence. According to Psalm 150, "Let everything that has breath praise the Lord."

Be a Part of Something Beautiful. Is a Clover Website for You?
Sponsor Resources Track | Mary Hawblitzel, Clover
SPOSNOR TRACK
In this class you will learn how to use Clover's revolutionary tool "The Greenhouse" to create and maintain a beautiful website. Whether you're artistically inclined, tech-savvy, or none of the above, you'll learn how easy the Web can be when you have the right tools.

Bridging the Gap: Addressing the Challenges of Leading a Multi-style Church
Worship Leadership Track | Craig Gilbert
Being the only music director or worship leader for a church that wants multiple styles can be a daunting, frustrating, and often lonely endeavor. Regardless of your "native" style or how many other styles you have to select music for and lead, come learn what it takes to be a successful multi-style leader. This will be a combination of presentation and open discussion among participants.

Building and Designing the Right AV Infrastructure
Sponsor Resources Track | Eric Evansm, AVBD Group
SPOSNOR TRACK
Ministry is all about building on the Solid Foundation. Learn why that same principle is necessary for AV solutions in the church today.

Building and Leading Technical Teams
Tech Track | Duke DeJong
Do you have a hard time finding and keeping talented technical artists on your team? Today we rely more on technology than ever before, but few churches have a thriving technical ministries team. If you lead technical artists, join us as we discuss practical concepts to building successful teams of technical artists, not simply folks who show up and run tech.

Building and Strengthening Your Voice Through Vocal Technique
Vocal Team Track | Scott & Vonda Dyer
This session will focus on the essential building blocks of vocal technique: breathing and breath support, getting rid of tension, and building your head and chest voice (and the blend of the two). The goal is to remove the barriers to vocal freedom and to your ability to engage deeply with God as you worship.

Coaching People Towards Their Best
Worship Leadership Track | Stan Endicott
Asking the right questions will change a person's life. We must reinvent ourselves every three years. "You need binoculars to see the blimp."

CCLI Resources for Your Church
Sponsor Resources Track | Rod Rachinski, CCLI
SPOSNOR TRACK
We'll review the Church Copyright License and SongSelect, learn how the new Rehearsal License makes it easy and affordable come practice time, how the Streaming License provides the most inexpensive permission for streaming your worship service, and how the Church Video license provides the permission needed for churches to legally show videos.

Communion and Community: The Lord's Table in Worship
Worship Leadership Track | Robb Redman
"Do this in remembrance of me." Jesus gave his disciples—and us—a command to remember him with the simple act of taking, eating, and drinking the bread and the wine when we gather for worship. Yet what this meal means divides many Christians, and how to celebrate perplexes many pastors and worship leaders. In this workshop we will take a look at how the Bible presents the Lord's Supper, and we'll consider strategies for leading people into a powerful encounter with Jesus, the host of his meal. Come prepared to share your ideas and best practices.

Creating a Culture of Worship
Worship Leadership Track | Buddy Owens
People create cultures that reflect their values. In this session, Buddy Owens will discuss strategies by which you as a leader can infuse the value of worship into the cultures of your church by teaching it, demonstrating it, resourcing it, and releasing it.

Creatively Leading Youth in Worship
Tomorrow's Leader's Track | Tim Sheerman
How do you keep a group of youth off their phones, passionate about worshiping Jesus, and teach them to be outwardly focused on the world around them? By facilitating an encounter with God and creating space for them to be transformed. Come and be encouraged by what youth really seek, and build a strategy for your youth that goes beyond impressing them with loud music, expensive technology, and gimmicks.

Creativity: Have a Curious Mind
Worship Leadership Track | Stan Endicott
Stimulate new ideas for you and your team, the creative process and how to "keep the ideas flowing."

Curating Visual Worship: How to Effectively Organize & VJ Your Media Library
Visual Media Track | Stephen Proctor
Curating content is an art form that every VJ must master, and media management/organization is foundational to this creative process. But what does this look like? Where can you find good visual media? How do you build a visual library? And how do you effectively navigate that library when you have so much to choose from? Come and see.

Don't Kill Your Choir—Make It New Again
Worship Choir Track | Stan Endicott
Group singing is on the upswing again—thanks, Glee! Of course the Bible does make mention of group singing. Your choir needs to be like the choirs in the movies. Choirs stir emotions in a way unique from every other art form. Start with the new sounds and new skills, and then you will get "new singers."

Electric Guitar in Worship
Worship Musician's Track | Lincoln Brewster
Over the years Lincoln Brewster has had the pleasure of playing in many different types of environments. This has helped him learn how to identify the best use of guitar in most situations. Come join him as he dives into many of the different facets of electric guitar in the context of worship. You won't want to miss tips from one of the most recognized guitar players in Christian music.

Electronic Percussion and Drums in Worship
Worship Musician Track | Trevor Root
For churches facing the challenge of managing stage volume, using electronic percussion and loops can be part of the solution. Hear how it can be done without sacrificing sound quality and expressiveness. This class is geared toward drummers, percussionists, and sound technicians.

Learn the secrets of the pros in this workshop.

Every Move I Make: Using Our Bodies in Worship
Tomorrow's Leader's Track | Linda Moon
"Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship" (Rom 12:1). Learn new, energizing motions for popular children's worship songs, and also discover ways to create your own by looking into easy-to-incorporate ideas for common words and the meanings behind each.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTIONS

Expanding Your Reach Using Live Webstream Production
Stewarding Technology Track | John Broadhead
An overview of what it takes to start streaming your events and services: the benefit for the church and viewers, startup costs, resources required, configuration options, and best practices.

Finishing Well
Worship Leadership Track | Holland Davis
Very few leaders finish their race well. Many try to hold onto their leadership positions and compete instead of transitioning into their God-given roles of influence to lead the next generation of leaders. This workshop will look at vital ministry principles that are essential to making a transition from worship leader to future roles.

Getting the Gospel Back Into Worship (Besides Just the Songs and the Sermon)
Early Christian Worship Track | Reggie Kidd
Ancient worship services offer a wealth of ways for congregations to remember, recite, and reflect on God's story. We will look at a number of "gospel acclamations," prayers, and liturgical elements from the earliest Christian worship services, and ask how they can help contemporary worshipers reconnect with the life and work of Jesus in worship.

God's Recipe for Worship
Worship Leadership Track | Vernon Whaley
In a day when cookie-cutter programs and worship seems the acceptable trend, Dr. Vernon Whaley from Liberty University's Center for Worship shares five ingredients for a biblically based worship ministry. Learn how these five ingredients make for a healthy recipe for worship.

Groove & the Worship Bassist
Worship Musician Track | Norm Stockton
A crash course in the essentials for effective bass playing in a worship band. Topics include warm-ups, technique, developing a groove vocabulary, avoiding groovicidal tendencies, effective bass/drum interaction, ear training, the critical subtleties, and much more.

Growing Kids Into Big Worshipers of God
Tomorrow's Leaders Track | Jill Anderson
Come and hear how to help your kids experience worship. We will learn how to inspire, focus, and help open the door for them to experience God. We will also hear practical ways to put a worship time together and how to develop your kids into a team of worshipers to lead others.

Help, My Lead Pastor Doesn't Understand Me
Sponsor Resources Track | Kevin Harrison, West Coast Bible College & Seminary
SPOSNOR TRACK
You know who you are: You took the position excited about the potential of what "could be" only to get blindsided by "what is." There's hope. This session will address 10 strategies for better connecting you and your lead pastor to "live" the ministry of worship in your local church.

How to Technically Prepare for Your Worship Services
Multicultural Track | Alfonso "Hez" Hernandez
Preparation. Sounds simple, right? We all know that we need to be prepared to lead our congregation in worship; however, there are many elements that can prevent us from having a successful worship service. We will share simple and effective ways of preparation.

Keyboards in Worship: Now What Do I Play?
Worship Musician Track | Fred Sanders
You might have noticed that contemporary worship music has a lot of drums, bass, guitars, and singers. But in piano lessons you learned to play the rhythm, bass, harmony, and melody all by yourself. So, now what? Discover the next chapter in your journey as a musician and learn to put your keyboard skills to new use!

Keys to Leading Effective Worship Team Rehearsals
Worship Musician Track | Phillip Edwards
Team members running late? Musicians with varying skill levels? Running out of time in rehearsals? This class focuses on practical ways to overcome many of the challenges that we all face regarding rehearsals. The class is tailored for teams of all sizes with practical tips to help you plan ahead and maximize your rehearsal time and lead your teams well.

Kobayashi Maru: The Tech's Guide to Understanding Music and Musicians
Tech Team Track | Kent Morris
If you've ever stood in the tech booth and wondered how to fix a monitor that "sounds green" then this class is for you. The people who inhabit the stage depend on us to help them communicate. Sometimes that communication needs some translation in order to achieve its goal. We will decipher musical code and how to interpret those outlandish hand signals.

Leading With a Limp: Learning to Boast in Your Weakness and the Sufficiency of God's Grace
Pastoral Leadership Track | Scotty Smith
The gospel announces the glorious end to all of our posing, pretending, and performing-for-acceptance as leaders. The best gift we can give those who follow us is not our competency, but our boasting in Jesus—our utter reliance on the mercy, grace, and Spirit of God. This workshop will present the counterintuitive model of servant leadership seen in the life of the Apostle Paul—a man who was vulnerable, honest about his weaknesses, accepting of his limitations, and smitten by the riches of the gospel.

LifeWayWorship.com: Your One-Stop Worship Resource
Sponsor Resources Track | Craig Adams, LifeWay Worship
SPOSNOR TRACK
Discover the many ways LifeWayWorship.com can enhance your worship ministry—saving you time and your church's budget.

Moving Worshipers from Passive to Participatory
Worship Leadership Track | Constance Cherry
Passive worship can be a problem in worship today regardless of worship style. In this workshop you will learn how to move your congregation from spectators to participants. Discover such things as the difference between "program worship" and "participatory worship," why participatory worship is so important to all generations of worshipers, and very practical suggestions for improving participation in congregations of any size and style.

Multicultural Worship in the 21st Century: What Are We Missing?
Multicultural Worship Track | Vaughn Thompson Jr.
The world has evolved into a completely different society and social structure due to globalization/integration. There are literally, new cultures in the world as a result of fusion and assimilation. It's not enough to "act" multicultural anymore or to even "celebrate" it. We must learn the art of adaptation as a way of living and thinking so that it becomes second nature. We will define and discover the origins of what is called "Third Culture" and how this defines our identity, shapes our spirituality, and affects the way we lead others. Practical Apps: creating worship environments, casting vision, song selections/sets, building community, knowing your congregation, helpful do's and don'ts.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTIONS

Multigenerational Worship
Worship Leadership Track | Ray Jones
Would you like to strategize your ministry so that you are training up a new generation of worship leaders on a continual basis? Then this is the workshop for you!

Planning a Good Worship Flow: Understanding the Vision of the House
Worship Planning Track | Adam Ranney & Micah Massey
One of the hardest things for a worship leader to do is to please everyone and all of their musical preferences. One way to alleviate that pressure is to know the heart of the pastor and his vision of worship for the house. In this workshop you will learn how Free Chapel, which is a multicultural church with a lot of different musical preferences, plans their worship sets. With a pastor that loves all kinds of music from CCM to rock to gospel to the older hymns—and lots of variety of those styles throughout the worship experiences—worship leaders Adam Raney and Micah Massey have much experience and they will share their learnings on how to make it happen.

Saturday Night Live: Rediscovering the Great Vigil Easter Service
Early Christian Worship Track | Reggie Kidd
A great gem of worship from the ancient church is the all-night service on "Holy Saturday," when the whole biblical drama is recounted, new converts are baptized, and Easter in proclaimed "in the dead of night." We'll lay out the drama early Christians experienced in this, their holiest and most mysterious of services, and we'll consider takeaways for contemporary worship.

Selecting & Adapting Songs for Multicultural Congregations
Multicultural Track | Alfonso "Hez" Hernandez
Having songs outside of what your church normally does is definitely a challenge. And when it comes to multicultural worship songs there is a balancing act that's involved. It's the balance of good theology, language, style, and repetition. If any one of these dominates the other, the congregation may feel extremely uncomfortable or reject a song completely. We will discuss not only the importance of this balancing act but share tips on how to be undeniably successful.

The Worship Leader as Pastor
Worship Leadership Track | Ed Wilmington
This session will guide a discussion about the worship leader's pastoral function, whether on the platform or among the congregation as a whole. Some church traditions do not recognize the worship leader as an official pastor, and some worship leaders do not see themselves as pastors but only as musicians. However, whether or not a worship leader has the title of "pastor," the need to think pastorally is essential in effectively guiding the congregation into the presence of God.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTIONS

Translating Songs for the Latino Congregation
Multicultural Track | Christine D'Clario & Julissa
Living in America, it's easy to forget that most of the world does not speak English and that much of the world's music is not written in English. In order for us to hear the best of what the rest of the world sings—and in order for the rest of the world to experience our best songs—skilled writers must work in the art of translation. But it's not as straightforward as you might think. A good translation needs to be true to the original and able to stand on its own for a new audience—our congregations. Skilled worship leaders will share the dos & don'ts of translating and even share material to use in your local church.

Visual Environments: Using Your Space to Project God's Visual Story
Visual Media Team Track | Stephen Proctor
The Church once gathered in visually immersive sacred spaces that screamed "Father, Son & Holy Spirit," yet now we gather in blank worship centers filled with technology that screams "Lights, camera, action!" We used to have art and architecture that pointed to God, yet it slowly turned into stages that point to ourselves. The fact is we never got away from image-driven worship; we just replaced art and icons with worship leaders and pastors. As leaders and curators of visual worship, we must learn to see beyond the screen and start reclaiming the worship space as a canvas and spotlight that points people's eyes back to God's visual story. And we can use technology to do it.

Visual Worship: The Text
Visual Media Team Track | Nate Ragan
An exploration of John 3:30, the rules of on-screen text & how to break them, and using Scripture to enhance your worship set.

Visual Worship Workshop

Working With What You Have: Developing the Team That God Has Given You
Worship Leadership Track | Clay Hecocks
We go to a conference and see amazing worship teams with amazing musicians, but that's not what I've got back home. So what do I do, what's realistic, and how do I get the most out of what's available? We'll tackle all of these questions.

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTIONS

Worship and Reconciliation: Listen to Your City
Multicultural Track | Tanya Riches
When we look around our cities, there is a wide diversity of people—but this doesn't always translate into our churches on Sunday mornings. Worship music is more than musical performance—in the Bible we see worship as a profoundly unifying declaration of God's justice. It is also more than just a musically diverse song list; it takes worship leaders with a heart prepared to serve. Based in one Australian worship leader's journey, this workshop will help you ask the right questions to do a checkup on your worship leadership.

Worship Lighting
Tech Team Track | Camron Ware
Even if you're not the tech guy, it's important to know what's out there and what's possible for lighting in your worship service. We will cover lighting fixtures (conventional, LED, moving lights) consoles, color theory, how to find the right people, and how to use lighting in worship effectively. We will also cover how projection can transform an entire space using technology that you're probably already using.

Writing for Worship
Worship Leadership Track | Jeremy Armstrong
The new media age has given every writer the ability to self-publish their ideas. But what kind of writing is necessary to catch the attention of a publishing organization (print or online)? Managing Editor of Worship Leader magazine Jeremy Armstrong will share insight on the keys to writing short articles, essays, features, as well touch on the arts of editing, website curating, blogging, reviewing, and interviewing; it's all relevant, and it will all be discussed.

You Are What You Sing: So Choose Carefully
Worship Planning Track | Dr. Constance Cherry
We sometimes underestimate the formative power that music plays in shaping worshipers' lives. That's a risk we shouldn't take. This workshop helps local church leaders identify which songs are in and which ones are out and why. A very practical rubric will be explained for evaluating any song in any style theologically, lyrically, and musically. Not only will you make better choices for your context, but you will grow in community as you make these decisions together.

Yamaha Keyboards in Worship: Equipping Instruments of Praise
Sponsor Resources Track | Erick Hailstone & Jeff Urke, Yamaha Corp of America
SPOSNOR TRACK
Yamaha makes dozens of keyboards, but how do you decide which is right for your church? Digital pianos, performance keyboards, synth workstations, arranger workstations, and more will all be on the discussion table in this session.
